FIGURES FROM TAX ROLLS

KIND AND VALUE OF PERSONAL PROPERTY RETURNED IN PONTOTOC COUNTY.

The tax rolls of Pontotoc county show that 7,702 horses were returned. Their value is given at $495,969, or an average of $64.39. Of mules and jacks there are 4,372 valued at $385,555. Of cattle 21,618 head are reported valued at $449,651, an average of $20.80 per head. As a sheep country this does not seem to be doing much, only 22 being found. The value of these is given at $145, or $6.59 per head. Goats show up a trifle better, 275 being reported with a value of $376, or $1.37 per head.

When it comes to hogs Pontotoc county makes a fairly good showing with 7,031, which are listed at $42,511, an average of $6.05 per head.

The county possesses 7 threshers, valued at $2,250, or $32.143. In the way of wagons 2,782 are reported valued at $65,403.

There are 15 autos on the rolls valued at $5,300 or $353.33 per machine.

Mortgages and notes show $136,785. National banks, except on real estate are assessed at $149,541; state banks $93,718.

Average amount of capital, goods and property employed in merchandising, $590,902. In manufacturing, $93,280.

Evidently the canine population is becoming extinct, for only 78 dogs are reported. Their value is given at $865, an average of $11.09.

GOOD CROP OF WHEAT AND OATS

Henry Young started his threshing season Thursday on his own crop of wheat and oats east of Ada. His wheat averaged twenty-five bushels to the acre and his oats forty-one. On part of his oat crop he made as much as sixty bushels, but owing to a defective drill used in planting twelve acres made next to nothing, thus cutting the average.

TEXAS VOTES HUGE SUM FOR ROADS

Good roads elections are popular in Texas. Between Jan. 1 and June 1 there were thirty-six elections held, involving $5,350,000.

Twenty-two of these elections were sweeping victories for advocates of good roads. The bonds issued aggregated $3,690,000 which amount exceeded the total amount voted for good roads during 1912.

This shows the value of intelligent agitation, the value of publicity and the value of presenting the real facts to the people.

Brazoria county voted $300,000 in a lump. This is away down in South Texas.

El Paso, the gate way to Mexico, voted $390,000. Matagorda, down on the Gulf coast, voted $300,000.

Navarro county, in the heart of Central Texas, voted $100,000.

Good roads advocates are getting numerous in every county in the state. This is a good sign, a hopeful sign.

Good roads and good schoolhouses are magnificent advertisements of the progress and thrift and intelligence of a community.

In 1914 a new legislature will be elected.

Before the primary good roads advocates in every county should interest themselves and see to it that men who believe in first-class public highways are nominated and then elected to the legislature.

Texas needs a state highway commissioner. It needs a state engineer.

East-and-west and north-and-south highways should be constructed. Now it is announced that the United States government may increase its appropriation for Texas road work to $83,000.

highway.

Its estimated cost will be $250,000.

Governor Colquitt has designated as a government highway the road running from Fort Worth from the most direct line to the Parker county line; thence to Weatherford, the county seat of Parker county; thence, from Weatherford through Parker county and Palo Pinto to Mineral Wells.

This will give another impetus to road building in Texas. Strike while the iron is hot.—Fort Worth Record.

HAYS LEADS IN RACE FOR GOVERNOR

Little Rock, Ark., June 26.—With only a few hundred votes to be heard from and about two-thirds of the counties officially reported, the race for the Democratic nomination for governor, equivalent to election, is apparently won by Judge George W. Hays. The total returns received give Hays 3,836, Brundidge, 34,732; Hays' lead 1,104.

These figures do not include the vote of Madison county, conceded to Brundidge, and Newton county, which it was reported, would give Brundidge 175 majority. This would cut down Hays' lead to about 500.

Oil Strike Near Chickasha.

Chickasha, Ok., June 27.—Oil was struck at a depth of 850 feet by the Sterling Oil and Gas Company, twenty miles southwest of here. The oil is very black and heavy. It is estimated that the well will produce at least twenty barrels a day. This is the first well drilled in what promises to be new oil territory in Oklahoma. Three more wells are being drilled within this territory.

The Fort Worth Record says Texas needs a highway commissioner. The action of the Oklahoma Legislature indicates that that body thinks Oklahoma has one she does not need. Perhaps the Record will invite him to come to Texas.

A youth shot up a courtroom in the city of Washington Monday. But he didn't get nearly as much space in the papers as if he had pulled the stunt off in Oklahoma. And not a paper referred to it as "a typical Washington episode."—McAlester News-Capital.

After all the ups and downs Gov. Cruce has had with the special session of the legislature he probably feels like the fisherman in the Arabian Nights who dragged out a big brass bottle which he opened without having any idea of its contents. The occupant proved to be an evil spirit who then tried to throttle the fisherman. It was easy to turn him loose but the deuce was to pay when it came to corraling him in the bottle again.

It is reported that Rev. E. D. Cameron is contemplating entering the race for state superintendent, making woman suffrage the main plank of his platform. That would be a good strong plank if the women had a vote, but since they haven't, we fail to see wherein it will help him particularly. Perhaps, however, he is out for the fun there is in it rather than the expectation of regaining the office which he lost by such an overwhelming vote three years ago.

Although this has not been as much of a building period as some preceding years in the history of the city, the residences for the year will amount to more than $100,000. The major portion of that amount has already been built or is under construction. It is not probable that the building of business houses will amount to much this year, there being no special demand for more than those already built, but taken all the way through the record will not be so bad. Steady and solid improvement is worth more to any town than spasmodic booms, and that is the way Ada has been built from the first.

Doolin Will Not Resign.

Oklahoma City, Ok., June 27.—"It was my purpose to resign the office of state game and fish warden as soon as the legislature adjourned, but since the investigating committee has seen fit to recommend my removal, I have abandoned all idea of resigning," said John B. Doolin of Alva, who reached here last night.

Mr. Doolin was Gov. Cruce's manager in the first campaign, and was associated with the governor's race in the second campaign. It was generally known among his friends that he has attempted to resign from the office of game warden several times, but remained at the governor's request.

Mother's Friend in Every Home

Comfort and Safety Assured Before the Arrival of the Stork.

The old saying—what is home without a mother—should add "Mother's Friend." In thousands of American homes there is a bottle of this splendid and famous remedy that has aided many a woman through the trying ordeal, saved her from suffering and pain, kept her in health of mind and body in advance of baby's coming and had a most wonderful influence in developing a healthy, lovely disposition in the child.

There is no other remedy so truly a help to nature as Mother's Friend. It relieves the pain and discomfort caused by the strain on the ligaments, makes pliant those fibres and muscles which nature is expanding and soothes the inflammation of breast glands.

Mother's Friend is an external remedy, acts quickly and not only banishes all distress in advance, but assures a speedy and complete recovery for the mother. Thus she becomes a healthy woman with all her strength preserved to thoroughly enjoy the rearing of her child. Mother's Friend can be had at any drug store at $1.00 a bottle, and is really one of the greatest blessings ever discovered for expectant mothers. Write to Bradfield Regulator Co., 128 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for their free book. Write to-day. It is most instructive.

INCREASING INTEREST IN BAPTIST MEETING

The Baptist meeting at the Second church in North Ada is still in progress and large crowds are attending every service. The interest is growing and the people are becoming more active.

Thursday night's service was a splendid one, and several conversions, at Igrown men, occurred. Quite a number of professions to date. Hand of Christian greeting and church fellowship given to ten last night, and others who have joined from time to time were not present. The prospects are really bright for a wonderful meeting. A very noticeable thing is the fact that a great number of men who are not in the habit of attending church are attending these services.

Interesting subjects are being discussed from service to service. Sunday night, Evangelist Guy will deliver his famous sermon, "On the Lightning Express." This will be a great occasion for those wanting to hear the Bible discussed in a plain, simple way. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Maine Election Attracts Attention.

Augusta, Me., June 27.—Although the special election in the Third Maine district to choose a successor to the late Congressman Goodwin will not be held until September the contest already is beginning to attract wide attention. The situation as it appears at present is full of interesting possibilities.

The late congressman Goodwin, republican, was elected in September last over Gould, Democrat, the sitting member, by a plurality of only 709. Mr. Goodwin's victory was attributed to his personal popularity, his long acquaintance with Republican politics, and the prestige resulting from his years of intimate association with Thomas B. Reed.

The September election was held while the truce between the Republicans and Progressives was in force. The Progressives had no candidate in the field, and those who desired to flock apart from the old parties had to choose between the Socialist and the Prohibition tickets. In all the minor parties they less than 800 votes. Now the spirit of Maine politics has undergone a change, and it is expected the Progressives will have a candidate of their own in the coming election. With a three-cornered fight among the Democrats, Republicans and Progressives, the result will afford an excellent opportunity of measuring their comparative strength and of noting any changes in political sentiment that may have come over the voters since the general election of last November.

ADA ENTERS CLEAN TOWN CONTEST

Ada has been entered in the clean town contest being conducted by Holland's Magazine. Secretary Haraway of the Commercial Club having complied with the few formalities necessary to place Ada squarely in the race. As the ladies of Ada are very much interested in the work, the chances of winning are most excellent. It is now up to every citizen to constitute himself a committee of one to see that things around his place are kept as they should be.

ORIGIN OF TWO INDIAN TRIBES

LEGENDS OF MIGRATION AND ESTABLISHMENT OF CHICKASAWS AND CHOCTAWS.

Our literature, more than any other civilized nation, has been enriched by the legendary lore, the beautiful, but simple ceremonials that have come to us from our red brother of the forest and plain. The writings of Cooper and a score or more of eminent authors have depicted the many fascinating incidents and scenes of the lives of a race that is fast passing, and whose existence, in the very near future, will live only in the memory of their conquerors.

But few, perhaps, have ever heard the simple legend that, for several hundred years, has been handed down to the Choctaw and Chickasaw youth, describing the account of the first real division of a part of the original Muskogean tribe into Chickasaws and Choctaws.

Two brothers of stately form, famed in the chase and in war; but devoted to each other; both having a large following and living on terms of the most friendly character, agreed, on advice of the Great Spirit to seek new fields where their hunting ground would not be restricted and where the animosities and intrigue of the Muskogean tribe could not affect them. They were told by the Great Spirit to travel towards the rising sun and travel as long as a divining rod—given them by the Great Spirit—should point the direction, but when the pole refused to direct them, there they should remain and that the Great Spirit would protect them and their posterity.

The name of these two brothers was Chicza and Chocta. Chocta traveled on until he crossed a great river—one they had never seen before. The situation greatly impressed Chocta who devoutly wished that the Great Spirit would permit them to remain there. He was sure that game and fish could be secured easily and so when the morning came and he saw the pole did not lean he was greatly overjoyed. A feast was prepared and an offering made to the Great Spirit for his kindness in leading them to such a beautiful spot.

That section was Central Mississippi.

Chicza, who was traveling a day or so behind his brother, lost the trail. A great storm arose and he concluded to wander on devoutly believing that the Great Spirit would not desert him and his faithful followers who had been always devout in their vows and offerings and religious rites. He and his band wandered on and on, giving up at last all hope of finding Chocta and his band; till at last they also came to a valley large er than any they had ever seen before, through which meandered a great stream and rising gently from each bank was a beautiful forest in which abounded all kinds of game. The stream also contained fish they had never seen before. The situation so impressed them that, giving up all hope of finding Chocta's band, and believing that the Great Spirit had led them to a land of promise and desired them to remain there they agreed to make the section their home. They prospered. For years they were unmolested till the Iroquois invaded territory and hunting ground.

That section was Northern Mississippi, Western Kentucky and Tennessee.

Many years after, members of the two bands chanced to meet in hunting and related the incidents of the separation, when at last the two brothers were informed of the situation of each, and how the Great Spirit had no doubt led each to a favored section where he expected each to live and that each would prosper if he followed the evident wish of the Great Spirit. A great council was called and the two tribes were brought to gether again after a long separation. An agreement was made, the pipe of peace was passed and each band was henceforth to be known as a separate and distinct tribe; that of Chicza as the Chickasaws and Chocta to be known as the Choctaws. Chicza band was far more warlike owing to the contamination of the Iroquois, while the Chocta band were more pastoral.

The story has, for many hundreds of years, been a part of the folk lore of the two tribes and among many of the full bloods even to this day is still believed, and, no doubt, its belief has been a powerful factor in holding the two tribes in such close Reunion of Hood's Brigade.

Temple, Tex., June 26.—Deeds of valor were retold today at the forty-second annual reunion of Hood's Texas Brigade. The thrilling part played by this portion of Lee's army at Gettysburg was reviewed by John H. Kirby of Houston and other speakers who addressed the white-haired veterans who formed such a pillar of strength fifty years ago. A large number of the veterans are preparing to leave after adjournment tomorrow for the Gettysburg reunion and celebration. Nearly all of them will see the field for the first time since the memorable night of July 3, 1863, when, battered and disorganized by the larger force and superior artillery of the federals, Lee turned his army southward.

Slayer of Husband on Trial.

Shreveport, La., June 26.—Charged with the murder of her husband, Mrs. Della Stroud, known as the best horsewomen in northern Louisiana, faced trial today in Judge John R. Land's court. From a plunging horse, Mrs. Stroud shot her husband in the public road near Vivian. The women alleges that she had been attacked by her husband and that she shot in self defense.

Mrs. Stroud had been riding with Edward Beeler, a friend of the family who shared her love for horses. The husband is alleged to have been jealous of the attention paid his wife by Beeler and on meeting them as they were returning from a ride, dismounted and began beating his wife with a strap. As the horse she was riding became unmanageable and as he could not get close enough to continue that form of chastisement he drew a revolver, it is said, and was about to fire when his wife brought her own weapon into play. Despite the unsteadiness of her seat her aim was true and Stroud was killed instantly with a bullet through his head. Many prominent persons have been called as witnesses to testify as to the character of the defendant.

Georgia to Have New Governor.

Atlanta, Ga., June 27.—All arrangements are completed for the inauguration tomorrow of Governor John M. Slaton. The advance guard of visitors from throughout the state is already putting in an appearance. The members of the State legislature now in session will participate in the inauguration ceremonies, which will take place following the customary parade of military and civic organizations. Governor Brown, the outgoing executive, has arranged to take a short vacation after his retirement from office. Rumors are in circulation that he may enter the race for the United States senate.

PLENTY OF TIME TO PLANT KAFIR CORN

C. W. Zorn is a firm believer in kafir corn as a feed crop and says that it can be planted until July 15 and yield a heavy crop. If the dry weather continues and corn is cut short, it can be planted in the mid-dies to good advantage. Like sorghum cane it is a crop that never fails, as it needs very little rain.

TEXT BOOK ADOPTIONS WILL HOLD GOOD

Oklahoma City, Ok., June 26.—A temporary injunction restraining the present State Board of Education from adopting textbooks to supplant those adopted by the board as it existed in July, 1912, was granted by District Judge John J. Carney, on the petition of six book companies who secured contracts in 1912. Notices asking bids for a new adoption to be made July 15 are now being published. The present contracts awarded in 1908 expire shortly before the next school year begins.

Judge Carney held that the book company petitioners had done everything demanded of them as their part in making valid contracts in 1912 and the fact that Gov. Cruce did not approve the publisher's bonds did not affect their property rights, acquired by the favorable action of the Board of Education. The court commented on the fact that the governor had simply not acted. He neither had approved nor disapproved the book companies' bonds.

HOW WILSON SQUELCHED JOHN SHARP WILLIAMS

When President Wilson announced his purpose to deliver his first message in person, Senator John Sharp Williams made some scathing remarks about this ruthless breaking of precedent, and the day after it was delivered declared in a speech that he hoped it would be the last time the senate would ever be called on to hear a speech from the throne as the president headed the nation towards a monarchical form of government. A few days later while on another trip to the capitol the president suddenly met Williams face to face in the corridors of the building. Everybody was on tiptoe in their eagerness to see how the president might deal with the situation. Instead of rebuking his critic Wilson extended his hand, saying: "Senator, will you shake hands with your king?"

The big laugh among the spectator that followed proved far more effective than any stinging rebuke could have done and explains the silence maintained by the senator ever since.

Judge Carney held that the members of the old board, sought to be dismissed by Gov. Cruce when they were on the point of making an adoption, were not legally removed and did not lose their offices until the state senate in December of 1912 refused to confirm their appointments. The court made the injunction apply only to the proposed adoptions and awards of contracts and said the advertisements for bids would be permitted to continue. The case will go to the supreme court

WHITAKER'S BOND
FIXED AT $1.000

The greater part of the afternoon was taken up in Justice Powers' court with the preliminary hearing of John Whitaker, charged with shooting Ben Harrison at Byrd's Mill on the night of the 18th inst. The state was represented by County Attorney Roland and the defense by Judge Conway O. Barton. The court fixed Whitaker's bond at $1,000, which he readily made. The trial will probably come up at the July term of district court.

Sharon the Mormon Mecca.

Sharon, Vt., June 27.—A gathering of elders and other members of the Mormon church was held here today in observance of the anniversary of the death of Joseph Smith. Prophet Smith was killed by a mob at Carthage, Ill., in 1844. His body was brought here and buried near the place of his birth. From Utah and other strongholds of the Mormon faith word has been received that many pilgrimages are being organized to visit the birthplace and grave of the Prophet the coming summer. It is believed the gathering of Mormon elders will be the largest in Vermont in many years.

Hen Mothers Kittens.

A hen whose chicks were removed from her at Playford, Suffolk, England, not long since, discovered a cat with four kittens. She turned the mother out and took charge of the kittens, who are as much at home with her as with their mother, whom the hen allows into the nest to suckle her young.

World's Christian Conference.
Portland, Ore., June 27.—The most notable gathering of Christian workers ever held in America will be opened in this city Sunday and continued through the coming week. The gathering will be the second World's Christian Citizenship Conference, for which preparations have been going forward for nearly two years. The National Reform Association has conducted the preparations, with the indorsement and co-operation of many of the national church bodies.

Statesmen, philanthropists, sociologists, preachers, missionaries, educators and other leaders of Christian thought and action will take part in the conference and exchange views on the big social problems of the day. England, Ireland, France, Italy, China, Japan and other foreign countries, as well as the United States and Canada will be represented.

Among the problems to be discussed at the conference are peace and war, education and religion, capital and labor, socialism, intemperance, family and divorce, the ethical values of Christianity, prison reform and social service, the social conscience and personal character, claims upon society of its delinquents and dependents, child labor, the observance of the Sabbath, Mormonism, and social evils and their preventives and remedies. World plans are to be adopted for the solution of these and other problems of their kind. An authentic history of the attitude of the different countries of the world and their governments towards these problems is to be prepared. The data thus secured, together with the addresses delivered at the conference, will be printed for general distribution.

Something of the scope of discussion may be shown by the names of some of the speakers and the subjects of their addresses as follows: "Moral Accountability of Nations," Dr. J. A. MacDonald of Toronto; "Juvenile Delinquency—Its Cause and How to Prevent It," Judge Ben Lindsey of Denver; "Present-day Tendencies in France," Dr. Charles-Merle d'Aubigne of Paris; "Immigration," Professor Alberto Clot, of Palermo, Sicily; "Christianity as an Ethical Factor in Japanese National Life," Dr. K. DECALOGUE OF GOOD HEALTH

Decalogue of good health has been adopted which is worthy of emulation in every community, large or small, in the state. The ten commandments are as follows:

"I. Remember thy garbage can to keep it covered; every day shalt thou fill it and then shall the scavenger empty it, lest thy garbage become a stench to the nostrils of thy neighbor.

"II. Thou shalt cut the weeds on thy vacant lot lest it become a hiding place for old tin cans, papers and divers sorts of trash.

"III. Thou shalt plant many trees, for the sun will smite thee if thou sitest not in the shade; thou shalt also plant flowers and shrubs that thy habitation may be lovely in the eyes of men.

"IV. Thou shalt clean out the habitation of thy horse and thy cow frequently, lest the stable fly flourish and spread infantile paralysis and other death-dealing diseases.

"V. Thou shalt starve the fly in the spring, that thy children unto the third and fourth generation shall not smite him later.

"VI. Thou shalt build a sidewalk upon the ground before thy house that thy man servant, the stranger and the book agent bog not in the mud thereof.

"VII. Thou shalt not harm thy neighbor's garden, thou, nor thy dog, nor thy cat, nor thy hen that is without thy gate.

"VIII. Look thou not upon the milk when it cometh from an unclean dairy, for the doctor will not hold thee guiltless if thy infant sickeneth therefrom.

"IX. Verily, verily, thou shalt clean thy house thoroughly, wisely and often that germ-breeding dust shall not accumulate to afflict thee and thy husband and thy child and the stranger that liveth in the next block.

"X. Verily thou shalt vote for men who have the health of thy city at heart and who will pass laws amply providing for thy city's sanitation, to ensure thy health and thy children's health and the health of the stranger thou knowest not; for verily if the stranger within thy city's boundaries is afflicted with grievous disease because of thy carelessness, the flies and other vermin will visit thee and his affliction shall become thy children's and thine own. But if thou wilt not do thy duty and clean thy premises and compel thy neighbor to clean his premises then shalt thou live long and happily in thy city and thy children with thee."

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I—Gloria Kerr, a motherless girl who has spent most of her life at school, arrives at her father's home in Belmont. David Kerr is the political boss of the town and is anxious to prevent his daughter learning of his real character.

CHAPTER II—Kendall, representing the Chicago packers, is negotiating with Judge Gilbert, Kerr's chief adviser, for a valuable franchise. They fear the opposition of Joe Wright, editor of the reform paper.

CHAPTER III—Kerr asks the assistance of Judge Gilbert in introducing Gloria to Belmont society and promises to help him put through the packers' franchise and let him have all the graft.

CHAPTER IV—Gloria meets Joe Wright at the Gilberts. It appears they are on intimate terms, having met previously in a touring party in Europe.

CHAPTER V—Gloria twits Wright on his failure to keep an engagement to meet her in Paris. He explains that the death of his mother prevented his going to Paris.

CHAPTER VI—The Gilberts invite Gloria to stay with them pending the refurbishing of the Kerr home.

CHAPTER VII—One society bud who refused to meet Gloria is forced to do so when her father is made to feel Kerr's power.

CHAPTER VIII—Wright begins his fight against the proposed franchise in the columns of his paper, the Belmont News.

CHAPTER IX—Kerr, through his henchmen, exerts every influence to hamper Wright in the publication of his paper.

CHAPTER X—Gloria realizes she is not being received by the best society and is unhappy. She takes up settlement work.

CHAPTER XI—Kerr and his henchmen decide to buy Kerr's paper and ask the editor to meet them at Gilbert's office.

CHAPTER XII—Wright in his desire to keep from Gloria knowledge of her father's position, avoids her during the fight. Gloria is piqued.

CHAPTER XIII—Calling at Gilbert's office to solicit a donation Gloria meets Wright. He proposes and is accepted while waiting to be called into the conference.

CHAPTER XIV—Wright refuses to sell his paper and declares he will fight to a finish.

CHAPTER XV—The Belmont News appears with a bitter attack on Kerr. Gloria calls Wright a coward and refuses to listen to any explanation from him.

CHAPTER XVI—Broken-hearted, Gloria decides to plunge more deeply into settlement work.

CHAPTER XVII—She calls on a sick girl of the underworld named Ella.

CHAPTER XVIII—She learns for the first time that her father is the head of a notorious gang of political grafters.

Solt upright in bed.

"The boss!"

"Daughter," Gloria finished Ryan's exclamation. "I am the daughter of David Kerr. Now go."

Something in her bearing made them feel that she was telling the truth. Kelly, timid now and apologetic, was the first to speak.

"Well, we didn't know you was—why didn't you say—"

"I guess we'll go see Noonan," was Ryan's method of beating a retreat. "He can't get away, anyway," Kelly whispered to him.

Gloria breathed a sigh of relief as they turned to go, but in an instant the shrill scream from Ella which brought the men back to the center of the room froze her blood.

"The boss' daughter!" It was a witch's screech ending in a peal of unearthly laughter.

Gloria sank into a chair gasping. "What have I said?"

She felt the curse upon her. "Come back, Turkey, come back," shrilled Little Ella, laughing wildly. "The boss' daughter! The boss' daughter!"

Her thin hands plucked at the coverlid, and her blazing eyes were fixed upon Gloria, who had shrunk into a weak lump in her chair. Only a few moments had passed since all had admitted that Little Ella dominated the situation. That fact she recognized as readily as did the others. Now she determined to make use of her power. Gloria herself had aroused the savagery of the woman by having inflamed her against the boss, not knowing that the creature's rage was directed against her own father.

Feverishly stimulated to an unaccustomed mental acuteness by the thoughts of her wrongs as Gloria had lain them bare, all the cruelty of the woman's nature asserted itself. Revenge with her was sweetness long drawn out. It was the dainty morsel over which the gourmet lingers. It was the tantalizing antics of the cat that glows over the mouse beneath its paw, and even lets it run a little way to arouse the wild hope that it may yet escape. Having decided upon the ultimate disclosure of Wright's hiding place, Little Ella was now bent most of all on making the daughter of the boss suffer to the limit.

"What's the matter, Ella?" Ryan asked.

"Let them go, I say. Please let them go," Gloria implored.

"You want them to go, do you? Ha!

Ha! The boss' daughter! The boss' daughter!"

The last words she uttered in piercing tones horrible to hear as she swayed back and forth, keeping time with her body to the cadence of her cry.

Gloria tried to gather herself together to meet this new attack, but without much success. She felt so weak from the shock that she was only able to rise from her chair with difficulty.

"You're out of your head. You're mad. Keep still, I tell you." The men still standing irresolute, she turned upon them. "Why are you standing there? Leave this room."

Little Ella was enjoying herself hugely. Gloria's every pleading tone was music in her ears. Her eyes burned with excitement. Yet the cruel cat delayed to crush the mouse. Its quivering was too soul-satisfying. Realizing that if she admitted Gloria was the daughter of David Kerr the men would forego their pursuit of Wright, Little Ella knew her best course was to deny the relationship.

"Don't you go, Turkey," she yelled. "I'll tell you the truth." She turned to Gloria. "I wisht the boss had a daughter, did I?—It's a lie, Turkey. She's not Dave Kerr's girl. He'd laugh to see a daughter o' his in such a hell-hole. I'd watch her to see that she paid the price," she glanced at Gloria malevolently, "if—if he had a daughter. An' yer pertectin' the man you love!" she mocked. "We'll see how the boss' daughter loves."

Her laughter was terrible. The men could not think her the same woman they knew. Gloria started in alarm. She felt the woman was mad, and did not know what she might do.

"What are you going to do?" she asked.

Now Ella was sneering at her. She knew how to choose knife-blades for words. In everything she said was the cunning and the cruelty of a lost woman. Gloria was suffering, she could see, but there was still another chord which would vibrate to misery. Since time began jealousy has been a flaming sword in the hands of an unscrupulous antagonist who knows how to use it. To make Gloria think that she was defending a man untrue to her, was something. To make her believe that she had been defeated by the greater charm of Little Ella herself, was far more.

"Do you think I'd 'a' let you hid that man if he'd loved you? Never. You don't know why he come here, but I do. He come to see me. He loves me."

She beat her breasts as she spoke to emphasize her words and her eyes sparkled with the challenge she had just hurled at the daughter of the boss. Gradually, bit by bit, the veneer of civilization had been chipped away. Gloria no longer saw the gulf that separated them. She knew only that by cozening words this other woman was trying to make her think she had been robbed of her own. Her weakness left her. Now when she summoned all her strength, she joyed to find it did not fail. As Little Ella proclaimed that the man they were hiding had come to see her, Gloria sprang to the side of the bed, and cried with all the indignation of an overwrought soul:

"You lie!"

"That's what you say, but down in your heart you know it's the truth. It ain't the first time he's been here. Oh, he's told me about you, the boss' daughter; but it's me he loves."

The men were forgotten in this duel so elemental that it could have had the stone age for its setting. On one side, hate as bitter as the grave; on the other, love and faith stronger than death itself.

"Every word you utter is a lie," Gloria blazed. "If you loved him you wouldn't have called these outcries."

"Why don't you tell 'em yer the boss' daughter now?" taunted the other.

"Look here, Ella," Ryan broke in. "we're tired o' standin' here like fools. Quit yer gassin' an' make good."

"You'll get yours all right. She's not David Kerr's daughter. Don't you let her bluff you. I know where she hid 'im. I'll tell you where he is."

Gloria turned upon the men. "I've told you the truth, and I've warned you. Don't you come a step closer." Then she threatened the woman, "If you dare to speak a—"

Little Ella was not to be intimidated. "When she dragged him in," she began, "she locked the door, an' then she—"

Gloria was standing at no great distance from the bed when Little Ella began her betrayal of Wright's hiding place. As she realized that in an instant the secret would be out, her eyes dilated with her look of hate. Then they narrowed to cruel slits, while a tremor ran through her body. One who knew the girl would scarcely have recognized her. Like some lithe creature of the jungle waiting for the kill, she seemed to crouch for the spring. Just as the woman was about to utter the words which would reveal where the newspaper man was concealed, Gloria was upon her. She seemed with one bound to have leapt the space that separated them.

"You Jezebel!" she raged, and struck her fair upon the mouth. Ryan and Kelly did not stir. The unexpected had happened, and they were spellbound.

Gloria's breath rushed through her teeth with a horrid, hissing sound, her face was flushed, her hair tousled, and her waist in disarray. Yet she heeded nothing but the wild impulse to defend her own.

Little Ella, her scant strength all spent, gasped out that she would tell nothing. Gloria was beside herself and the promise meant nothing to her. With a man's strength she lifted the woman up, held her there an instant, and then hurled her back upon the bed. Her head fell over the side, and she lay as one dead.

Her rage was still hot upon her as she turned to confront the two men.

"As for you, get out."

Ryan made one last half-hearted stand.

"Say, the boss hates that man. Are you really Dave Kerr's daughter?"

"And you need to ask such a question!" she stormed. "Ask Mike Noonan if you will, but beware of David Kerr! If ever you have cause to fear him, you have it now. My anger is his anger, and don't you dare defy the daughter of David Kerr!"

She took a step forward menacingly, as if she had strength to inflict the same chastisement they had seen administered to the woman. They did not stay to argue with her. Leaving Little Ella to her fate, they made a hasty retreat.

No sooner were they out of the room than Gloria put into execution what she had designed when they departed the first time. Rushing to the door she closed it hastily and pushed the washstand in front of it, wedging it under the knob. This done, she ran back and dragged Wright from his hiding place. There was no thought of the woman whose head hung over the side of the bed in such ghastly fashion.

Gloria lifted his head and dashed water upon his face. She watched him closely, and as she saw that it had no effect upon him, a sudden fear seized her and her cheeks were blanched. With trembling fingers she tore at his shirt and felt for the beat of his heart. She could feel its faint pulsation. He lived.

With a wild cry she flung herself forward in a deep swoon upon the body of the unconscious man.

CHAPTER XXI.

The one person who could have told how Joe Wright had come to visit Mike Noonan's lodging house was David Kerr. He had sprung the trap himself, never dreaming that his own daughter would be caught in it. When the fight on the Interurban Railway had first started, at command of the boss, Jack Durken, a ward heeler, apparently had gone over to the enemy. The man had found employment in the circulation department of the News, and soon afterward the information reached Wright that one of his own employes was a former henchman of the notorious first ward leader, Mike Noonan. Durken was loud in his denunciations of David Kerr and his followers, and appeared willing to betray whatever he knew of the methods of the gang.

The Thought of Physical Injury Did Not Occur to Him.
